

Heaven

Heaven is a society structure, where all basic needs are automated.

There is 5 basic needs:

- ☐ Shelter
- ☒ Food
- ☒ Clean Water
- ☒ Electricity Automation Gaining
- ☒ Empathised Social Interaction System (Cause my loneliness is on the edge of hell) (And cause when there is no work to do, you can't be alone)

Food

Simplified food automation can be explored on simple example of locked menu, as McDonald's, hope it's not so funny for you. If there can be transportation system between all the materials specially for menu needs and automation of materials mining, we can automate menu and make food free.

I know, that it's feels like Minecraft, but if it's working, me, as a poor man, I wouldn't mind if it's worked Btw, I feel extremely sad about automation of meat gaining by killing animals, so, for moral purpose, there should be artificially made meat.

I want to remind myself that it's only an ideas pack, not complete explanation of how to do it.

Electricity Automation Gaining

As an eco way, and my poor knowledge of the engineering, I used to have a basic idea couple years ago.

Simplified, and please don't laugh, but:

What if we can put accumulated solar system on invisible side of the moon, and make transportation of electricity within big-to-small laser system, which will be pointed on hard melted materials within water system, which will create steam, as it happens already, so we can connect solar system with already existed stations, as a middle class, like we do in OOP languages.

Empathised Social Interaction System

Society should be kind. It's simple as that, cause when my hands are shaking and I don't know nothing, who am i, am I smart, good looking, or worthy of just being alive in that world, I don't know and can't decide for myself...

For me, forgiveness of anyone who do me dirty... for me forgiveness at least prioritised. I try, but in the world full of pain, where someone kills another one, I'm not always sure that it's possible... 🙄

In matter of social interactions system it's not enough to put a teenager: "I want to kill myself", - in a Facebook, cause he really wants, and it's not possible to see or bring him help.

"I feel alone, I feel uncomfortable with people, that's how alone I am. How others too, I believe. I want to be with people" - that's about me

No good idea is possible without pain, but there should be a limit to everything

In other words, world should be as one, but even I'm not sure if it's possible

Freevilism

Of course, there can't be done everything at one second, so partly evaluation of economical consumer demand I see in some easy example, where human exploring system by making new automations of some items.

As a small educated human, but still partly understanding human, I see the idea in matters of products

When we have not enough amount of free products, but a lot of expensive (not automated) products, it just should create difference between price of work, cause there is some free products, and some expensive, more desirable, but still not automated ones.

(Btw, as a two hand man I have more complex and worked out ideas, but in depression and psychosis I have no ability to do it by myself, I am not even sure if they are real working)

Sorry, I'm really unsure and depressed about myself, don't judge, it's just an idea 🙄